Would you like to take part in dementia research?

The best way we can currently fight dementia is by understanding how our lifestyle choices can prevent it.

We are looking for healthy volunteers aged between 50-70 to join our study investigating if gluten may cause harm to the brain in people who produce a certain antibody against it.

The experiment involves taking a blood sample, cognitive testing and MRI scanning. If you are interested, we would LOVE to hear from you.

For more information or to get involved:

Email: i.croall@sheffield.ac.uk    Call: 0114 215 9151

*You should not already be restricting gluten in your diet, or have a gluten-related disorder (e.g. Coeliac Disease)